V. Subcommittee Updates

A. Student-Athlete Well-Being - Bruhn

Attached is a draft of proposed “Guiding Principles for Iowa Student-Athletes, Student Managers, and Spirit Squad Members in Their Use of Social Media Sites.” This subcommittee, the Iowa Student Athlete Advisory Committee, and the UI General Council staff have vetted the draft.

Colin moved to approve the guiding principles; Bruhn seconded the motion. Committee members voted in full to approve the document. Chair Hollingworth will update the PCA Operations Manual and send the updated manual to the President’s Office for posting on the UI President’s home page.

B. Academic Achievement - Bowden

Chair Bowden reported student-athletes who entered the UI in the fall of 2010 graduated at a rate of 90% when the rate was calculated using the criteria for the NCAA’s Graduation Success Rate (GSR). This places the UI fourth among Big Ten institutions. Student-athletes who entered the UI in the fall of 2010 graduated at a 77% rate using the federal government’s benchmark for graduation success. This ranking puts the UI in third place among Big Ten peers. The UI’s general student population rate was 70%. The GSR percentages more accurately assesses the academic success of student-athletes by taking into account mid-year transfers and mid-year enrollees.

Chair Bowden noted 90 student-athletes were named to the 2017 Big Ten Fall Academic All-Conference Team. Iowa had 24 more student-athletes recognized in 2017 than in 2016.

Twenty-two student-athletes will graduate next week at commencement ceremonies.

The PCA Student-Athlete Academic Recognition will take place Saturday, February 17, 2018, during the Iowa-Indiana men’s basketball game.

C. Equity - Matheson

Chair Matheson stated Tovar reviewed the extensive calendar the Student-Athlete Academic Services staff members establishes each year for the student-athletes. Subcommittee members were impressed with the national, high profile speakers engaged to present to student-athletes on issues of equity and diversity.

- C. In recognition of Martin Luther King, Jr, Day on January 15, 2018, Athletics Department staff members have enlisted the services of Janet Judge, a higher education and employment law attorney. She will present a session to the student-athletes and another to Athletics administrators and coaches. The title of her presentation is "Sexual Misconduct & Social Media: Know Your Rights & Responsibilities."

Following Judge's presentation to student-athletes, a Dance Marathon kick-off event will be held by the student-athletes.

- D. As part of the alcohol harm reduction efforts on the UI campus, ISAAC members are encouraging sports teams to take advantage of the Red Watch Band Training – a course which teaches methods for being responsible and safe when alcohol is present; attendees also become CPR certified as part of the program. The swimming team took the course and highly encourages other sports teams to participate.

Appendix F. Guiding Principles for Iowa Student-Athletes, Student Managers and Spirit Squad members in Their Use of Social Media Sites

Social Media Sites:

Social media sites (such as Facebook, Instagram, Pinterest, Tumblr, Twitter, Vine, and similar sites and blogs) enable individuals to interact with an expansive universe of new people and to connect with friends and family. Postings by student-athletes of personal profiles and comments in chat rooms and blogs are in the public domain, however, and are easily accessible by anyone including reporters, parents, coaches, recruits, fans, groupies, predators, potential employers, and graduate school admissions officials. Even after it has been deleted, information once posted on a social media site can often be retrieved.

~~Athletics Department Policy:~~

Participation in intercollegiate athletics at the University of Iowa is a privilege that imposes certain obligations on student-athletes, including the responsibility of being a positive representative of the university to the public. Student-athletes, therefore, are expected to conduct themselves at all times with honesty, dignity, and good sportsmanship. The Athletics Department believes in protecting the rights of student-athletes to freedom of speech, association, and privacy, including their right to participate in social media. Neither coaches nor team rules may require student-athletes preemptively to disclose private social media information to anyone. Student-athletes, however, agree to team rules that may authorize a coach to impose temporary social media restrictions to address specific concerns related to the observance of these guiding principles. The Athletics Department does not intend to monitor student-athletes' social media sites on a systematic basis, but Athletics Department administrators may periodically conduct random checks of student-athletes' social media sites. Student-athletes are expected to monitor their own social media sites and post only information and images that conform to these guiding principles and appropriately represent themselves and the university to the public.

The Athletics Department reserves the right, under the Student-Athlete Code of Conduct (Category II Misconduct) to investigate and take action against any student-athlete who is posting material on a social media site that violates, or appears to violate, NCAA, university, or Athletics Department rules. Postings that violate these guiding principles are posts consisting of information, images or language that inappropriately represent the student-athlete or the university to the public, including, but not limited to, partial or total nudity, sexual misconduct, underage alcohol consumption, use of illegal drugs or controlled substances, hazing activities, tobacco use, and obscene gestures.

Recommended Actions:

It is recommended that student-athletes immediately review and then regularly monitor any social media sites on which they may have posted material to ensure that the postings are consistent with NCAA, university, and Athletics Department rules, and that they present the student-athlete in the way he/she wants to be portrayed. To better achieve the purposes of these guiding principles, student-athletes are also encouraged to monitor the social media sites of their teammates.

For reasons of safety and privacy, it is recommended that student-athletes refrain from posting on social media sites, and if posted, promptly remove any personally identifiable information, such as telephone number, address, class schedule, and places frequented. Student-athletes should regularly check tagged photos and monitor electronic photo albums, social media sites and blogs to avoid posted photos or messages that would be considered inappropriate.

Student-athletes should be cautious in joining groups on social media to be sure they want to be publicly associated with each specific group. Student-athletes should particularly refrain from creating or joining a group that is obviously inappropriate for student-athletes or is malicious. Student-athletes should also understand that once they become a group member, they are linked to the online discussion that takes place within that group, and only the group's administrator will be able to delete them from the group membership or remove postings made to the group site.

Student-athletes should alert their Coach and/or Sport Administrator ~~Student Athlete Academic Services office~~ if they discover the existence of any social media site created by others that falsely appears to be their site. The creation of such bogus sites may constitute identity theft, and the university will assist in their efforts to have the offensive sites removed.

By my signature below, I hereby affirm that I have read and understand the University of Iowa Athletics Department's "Guiding Principles for Iowa Student-Athletes, Student Managers and Spirit Squad members in their Use of Social Media Sites."

Furthermore, I understand that failure to abide by these guiding principles by posting materials on social media sites that violate Athletics Department policy may result in sanctions under Category II Misconduct, as outlined in the Student-Athlete Code of Conduct.
